Letter from the Chair of Undergraduate Studies

“The learning process is something you can incite, literally incite, like a riot.”

Audre Lorde

Dear incoming Honours Bachelor of Social Work students, and Bachelor of Social Work (post-degree) Students,

We are delighted that you have chosen the McMaster School of Social Work as the place where you will develop the skills necessary to practice social work, in all its diversity. Here, you will have the opportunity to dig deep – to reflect on your own life experiences and to learn about the life experiences of others; to learn and think critically about how and why individuals, communities and nations face personal and political challenges; to learn of the various ways that we can engage with individuals, communities and nations in acts of resistance; and to develop the skills that will help you to consider the multiple ways in which social workers can be a part of the social change process in your practices with individuals, groups and communities.

“You have to be careful with the stories you tell.
And you have to watch out for the stories that you are told.”

— Thomas King, The Truth About Stories: A Native Narrative

At the McMaster School of Social Work, you will also be asked to consider the power that social workers hold as we work for, with, and alongside other social workers, other health and social care professionals, fellow students, and the very people who we interact with in our daily practices. It is an exciting road to take and the faculty and field instructors that you meet in your classrooms, hallways, committee meetings and practice settings are here to support you every step along the way.

We look forward to getting to know you all better over the next few years both in and outside the classroom. Welcome!

Saara Greene, MSW, PhD
Associate Professor and Undergraduate Chair

Obtaining Accommodations: Student Accessibility Services (SAS) supports students who have been diagnosed with a disability or disorder, such as a learning disability, ADHD, mental health diagnosis, chronic medical condition, sensory, neurological or mobility limitation. SAS assists with academic and disability-related needs, including:

- Learning Strategies

Students are encouraged to register with SAS as early as possible to ensure that accommodation plans are in place by the beginning of term. If delays are encountered, students are encouraged to bring this to the attention to instructors, who will take steps to implement interim measures.

Students who register with Student Accessibility Services (SAS) meet with a Program Coordinator. Together with the Program Coordinator, students develop an accommodation plan which students are required to communicate to their course instructors.

School of Social Work Support

Faculty Advisor: In addition to the academic advising support that will be available to you from the School’s Administrator, you will also be assigned a Faculty Advisor. Your Faculty Advisor will be a faculty member in the School to whom you can go with questions relating to the field of social work, specific practice and research interests, questions about the job market and graduate work, etc. Lorna will provide you with information on your faculty advisor at the Undergraduate Orientation/Welcome Event. Lorna will also distribute the Faculty/Staff Photos, so that you can introduce yourself to your advisor.
Course Instructors
Your course instructor is responsible for ensuring that they meet the accommodations that you have been provided by SAS. There may be times when you may require academic support that has not been included in the SAS accommodation letter. In these instances, please connect with your course instructor and communicate with them about any concerns or questions you may have.

Undergraduate Chair
While we recommend that your first point of contact concerning assignments and other course related issues be discussed with your course instructor, we also recognize that this may not always feel possible. In these instances, the Undergraduate Chair is available to discuss your concerns.

In cases where accommodations require coordination/ negotiation across multiple instructors or, if accommodation is not working, the student, course instructor and the Undergraduate Chair will work together to reflect the learning and assessment needs of the student.
FIELD PLACEMENTS
Throughout your program you will have two unpaid placements and corresponding seminars:

1. SOCWORK 3D06 (seminar) and SOCWORK 3DD6 (placement)

2. SOCWORK 4D06 (seminar) and SOCWORK 4DD6 (placement)

Each placement is 390 hours in total, for a total of 780 placement hours over both placements.

For your first placement and seminar, SOCWORK 3D06 and 3DD6, there are two structures:

1) Summer block: runs from May to end of July. Involves 4 full days of placement and one full day of seminar each week.
   NOTE: First priority for summer block goes to students in the BSW post degree program.

2) Fall/winter concurrent: runs from September to April. Involves 2 full days of placement and one three hour seminar each week. Most Honours BSW students register in this placement structure.

For your second placement and seminar, SOC WORK 4D06 and 4DD6, there are two structures:

1) Fall block: runs from September to December. Involves 4 full days of placement and one full day of seminar each week.
   NOTE: First priority for fall block goes to students who have only these 12 units left to complete.

2) Fall/winter concurrent: runs from September to April. Involves 2 full days of placement and one three hour seminar each week.

Application Process: Before starting placement you must have the following courses complete:

- SOCWORK 2A06, 2B03 and 2BB3

All students who intend to start SOCWORK 3D06 and 3DD6 in the summer of 2017 or from September 2017-April 2018 (concurrent) will be required to complete the application form. Lorna will email the form to you and completed forms will be due no later than NOVEMBER 11, 2016.

Students who are applying for summer block must complete BOTH a SOCWORK 3D06/3DD6 application and a SOCWORK 4D06/4DD6 application to be properly placed in the summer of 2017 (SOCWORK 3D06/3DD6) and the fall/winter of 2017-2018 (SOCWORK 4D06/4DD6)
Special Notes:

- Placements are within 45-minutes of the Hamilton area; we do not offer long distance placements.
- We have a Faculty Field Coordinator in the School. WE find the placements for students - it is not up to you to find your own placement. Please do not contact agencies on your own. Students will be given a chance to rank top choices within our field database, Community Connections, however, it is not guaranteed that you will get one of your top choices. The Field Coordinator works with a number of criteria when matching a student with possible placement agencies, including but not limited to: student choices, available placements and field supervisors, reports from SOCWORK 2A06 instructors, etc.
- Placements are chosen because of their educational value, their congruence with the School’s philosophy and the field instructor’s qualifications. Only in very exceptional circumstances may a student request, in writing, an out-of-town placement. Each request will be considered on an individual basis and no guarantee is made that approval will be given.
- The vast majority of placement hours are during regular business hours; consequently, placement hours during the evenings and on weekend are not normally available.
- Part time students should be prepared to allocate 18 hours per week for placement and seminar during the September to April period. If summer or fall block is chosen, students should except to commit 5 days per week for 13 weeks in the summer or fall term.
- Students are expected to assume the cost of travelling to and from field practice agencies.
- Students will likely be required to undergo police checks and possible medical testing (ex. TB tests) before being accepted into placement. Students will assume the associated costs. The School of Social Work can provide a letter to students, which will confirm the need for a police check and will help to reduce the cost to the students. Please request the Police Check Letter from Lorna. If your Police Check is going to be completed with Hamilton Police Department, the actual forms (that will need to be submitted) are available in the main office.
- Orientation sessions will be offered prior to the placement process, usually starting at the end of term 1. Lorna will email with details and it is extremely important that you attend these sessions.
- Please visit our website for lots of additional information on field education: http://www.socialwork.mcmaster.ca/undergraduate-program/field-education

Disability Action Group
We are a McMaster University School of Social Work committee that focuses on creating awareness and greater inclusion of disability issues in the School of Social Work and across the University. Things we have worked on/are working on:

- Examining the School of Social Work curriculum to increase attention to disability and assisting students and faculty with developing a better understanding of disability.
- Working with the School of Social Work to enable students who have disabilities to more easily take part in the program (in terms of application to the program and accommodations/program accessibility). Our report on Accessibility and Disability Inclusion in the School of Social Work can be read here: https://socialwork.mcmaster.ca/news-events.
- Ensuring that students (with and without disabilities) who have an interest in studying disability can access social work field placements that reflect their interest.
- Promoting disability rights and fostering disability community by organizing celebrations of the International Day of Persons with Disabilities (Dec 3) and other Disability Awareness events.

The SWQT (Social Work Queer and Trans) Committee has provided a safe space for LGBTQ (Lesbian, Gay, Transgender, Queer & Questioning) social work students, field instructors and faculty to brainstorm, problem-solve and receive and give support. Over its twelve year history (formerly called LGBTQ), it has focused on a variety of activities and issues e.g. networking and mutual support among LGBTQ students; increasing the visibility of LGBTQ experience in the School; engaging in activism on LGBTQ issues in the University, the local community and more widely. The group is not active at the moment, but if anyone wants to be added to the email list, contact Darlene Savoy (dsavoy@mcmaster.ca). If any incoming students wish to reactivate the group / pull people together, we can put you in touch with the former facilitators of the group.

United in Colour (UiC)
We are a group of self-identified students of colour at McMaster University’s School of Social Work. We strive to provide support and advocacy for students of colour through a Black Feminist framework. Our Black Feminism is intersectional: Our analysis considers how interlocking systems of oppression and privilege shape our experiences. Our Black Feminism draws directly knowledge from our experiences: Our theory is not abstract and isolated within the academy; our theory is in the flesh. Our Black Feminism fosters the self-definition of people of colour: Black Feminism is used to assist us in naming our realities and determining our own destinies. Activities have included: Peer Support and Advocacy; Educational Resources and Information; Film Screenings, Workshops and Speakers; Building Coalitions.

Preparing for Critical Practice in Child Welfare

Are you interested in a career in child welfare?
The McMaster University School of Social Work is partnering with child welfare agencies in southwestern Ontario to offer an enhanced educational experience to BSW students in the areas of child welfare and child protection.

What is Preparing for Critical Practice in Child Welfare (PCPCW)?
PCPCW emphasizes knowledge, skills and attitudes that underpin child welfare work, and nurtures student attitudes and critical thinking abilities by drawing on current research and best practice from around the world, including Indigenous approaches to child welfare. PCPCW prepares BSW students for long-term careers in any child protection system in Canada and similar child protection settings internationally. Emphasis will be placed on the policy and practice limitations and possibilities of various child welfare systems that students may work within. Attention is paid to producing graduates with the potential for future leadership within child welfare who can successfully work within the system while also having the ability to think outside them.

Who can participate in PCPCW?
PCPCW is possible for:

- Students who are currently in level 2 of the Honours BSW program;
- Post-degree BSW students who begin in September 2016;
- Part-time students may be eligible, but should speak with the Social Work Administrator to carefully plan their credits.

What does PCPCW include?
Students who participate in PCPCW will usually complete all of the following:

- SW 4W03 (Child Welfare course);
- 3D06 Field Placement (in a related area, but not in a child welfare agency); be sure to discuss your interest in the PCPCW with the Field Education coordinator - she will help you identify a relevant setting;
- Advanced Theory Process & Communications: Critical Practice in Child Welfare (new 6-unit course to be taken in 4th year);
- 4D06 Field Placement (in one of the participating child welfare agencies).

How does PCPCW affect my BSW field placements?
PCPCW students will complete their 3D06 Field Placement in a related area, but not in a child welfare agency to maintain the generalist character of the BSW. PCPCW students will have the opportunity to interview for a 4D06 Field Placement with at least one of the participating child welfare agencies. Students who successfully secure a placement will be provided with support and mentorship from Field Instructors who are linked to and familiar with PCPCW.

What opportunities does PCPCW offer BSW students?
Advanced Theory, Process and Communication Course
PCPCW students will take a new 6-unit advanced course on case work designed to integrate theory and practice with a particular focus on child welfare. Students who are interested in PCPCW and the new course will be asked to provide: a) a reference letter from their 3D instructor; b) a recommendation from the Undergraduate Chair (Professor Saara Greene); and c) a recommendation from the Field Education Coordinator (Professor Janice Chaplin). Registration in this course will be limited to 12 students.
Preparedness for Child Welfare Practice

PCPCW students will develop increased academic knowledge about child welfare practice, as well as a broader awareness of and commitment to increased quality service. PCPCW students will have the opportunity to apply critical social work skills in both simulated and real child welfare settings where practice is fast-paced, highly regulated, usually complex, often conflictual, and where attention to issues of power, anti-oppression, decolonization and other social justice issues is crucial.

Cross-sectoral Child Welfare Practice

Child welfare agencies maintain relationships and partnerships with a number of community stakeholders including police services, the education system, the legal / criminal justice system, social services, Public Health, etc. Students who participate in PCPCW and complete their 4th year 4D placement at a participating child welfare agency will have the opportunity to liaise with these stakeholders and engage in cross-sectoral, community development social work practice.

Pilot Projects / Special Programs

Child welfare agencies develop and offer unique programs and pilot projects to respond to client and community needs. Students who participate in PCPCW will have the opportunity to be exposed to and engage with these programs as part of their 4th year placement. Unique programs and pilot projects will be communicated when students are considering agencies for their 4th year placement.

What else do I need to know about PCPCW?

- Participating in PCPCW is voluntary and does not result in any formal designation on your degree.
- Do you have access to a vehicle? Most child welfare agencies require that students have a car while on placement and some agencies are a 30 to 60 minute drive from McMaster University.
- Plan your units carefully, and have a back-up plan. Six units are needed for the new 6-unit advanced course on case work, and enrollment in this course is capped at 12 students.
- You may not be able to complete a Minor if you are already in progress.
- PCPCW students will be encouraged to use the Pebble Pad Learning Portfolio to reflect upon their learning and keep track of their progress through the BSW program.
- PCPCW is being offered as a pilot and will be evaluated over 3 cohorts of BSW students. PCPCW students will be invited to participate in research, which is voluntary; your participation or not in the research will not affect any aspect of your participation in the BSW program, including student evaluations in BSW course work and field placements.

Indigenous Pathways through the Bachelor of Social Work program

The McMaster School of Social Work has a broad mission to structure social work education, research and practice in pursuit of social justice and collective welfare. This includes a desire to focus on Indigenous experiences, knowledge and approaches towards disrupting colonialism. To this end, the School is identifying Indigenous Pathways through the BSW program.

Beginning in 2016 all incoming BSW students will have the opportunity to pursue an Indigenous Pathway through the BSW program. Honours BSW students can complete the Indigenous Pathway as well as a Minor in Indigenous Studies.

As part of the Pathway (and soon to be a requirement for all BSW students) students will take Introduction to Indigenous Studies (INDIG ST 1A03). This course is offered through a partnership between the School of Social Work and the Indigenous Studies program. The course focuses on the histories, societies and politics of First Nation, Metis, and Inuit peoples, the distinctive features of Indigenous worldviews and the history of relationships with European settler societies, with attention to treaties, legislation, and activism.

Indigenous Pathway (Honours BSW and post-degree BSW students*)
The Indigenous Pathway involves nine units of coursework and a focused placement:
- INDIG ST 1A03: Introduction to Indigenous Studies*
- 3Q03: Indigenizing Social Work Practice Approaches
- 4I03: Social Work & Indigenous Peoples
- A fourth-year placement in an indigenous-focused agency or setting
* Because post-degree BSW students have only Social Work courses to complete for their degree, most post-degree students will have to take INDIG ST 1A03 in addition to their degree requirements to complete the Pathway, unless this or a similar course was taken in their first degree. Check with the School’s student advisor, Tammy Maikawa, for details.

Indigenous Pathway AND Minor in Indigenous Studies (Honours BSW students only)
The Indigenous Pathway plus Minor in Indigenous Studies involves twenty-seven units of coursework, and a focused placement.
- 4I03: Social Work & Indigenous Peoples (taken as one of the courses towards the Minor)
- 3Q03: Indigenizing Social Work practice approaches (taken in addition to the Minor)
- A fourth-year placement in an indigenous-focused agency or setting
- A Minor in Indigenous Studies requires 24 units total, 6 units from this list:
  - INDIG ST 1A03 - Introduction to Indigenous Studies
  - INDIG ST 1AA3 - Introduction to Contemporary Indigenous Studies
  - CAYUGA 1Z03 - Introduction to Cayuga Language and Culture
  - MOHAWK 1Z03 - Introduction to Mohawk Language and Culture
  - OJIBWE 1Z03 - Introduction to Ojibwe Language and Culture
- And 18 units from this list:
  - http://academiccalendars.romcmaster.ca/preview_program.php?catoid=7&poid=4238&returnto=563

Participating in the Indigenous Pathway does not result in any formal designation on your degree; however if you complete the Minor in Indigenous Studies, this appears on your degree. Students will have to plan carefully to complete the Pathway. If you wish to follow an Indigenous Pathway through the program, please discuss this early in your BSW with the School’s student advisor, Tammy Maikawa.
